'Honor banners' mark Marathon blast sites

Tribute. The specially designed banners are a tribute to all of those affected by last year's bombings, organizers said.

In a tribute to all of the people affected by last year's Boston Marathon bombings, a set of specially designed "honor banners" were unveiled Thursday morning at the sites of the blasts.

Typically, hundreds of banners decorate the city in the month leading up to the Boston Marathon, all with the same or similar designs. But for this year's marathon, in front of Marathon Sports and Forum restaurant on Boylston Street, the "honor banners" will mark the sites where the bombs were placed and where countless people came to the aid of those injured.

Helping to unveil the special design were Boylston Street Marathon Sports manager Shane O'Hara and four-time Boston Marathon champion Bill Rodgers. Mayor Marty Walsh also attended the ceremony.

"The Boston Marathon street banners mark the kick-off of a world-class event the city of Boston is so proud to host," Walsh said in a news release. "This year, we have the opportunity to reflect and draw inspiration from the strength and courage of all those affected by last year's tragedy – by the heroics of our first responders and caregivers, and by the countless acts of selflessness throughout our community."

Banners to bracelets

Additionally, lead Marathon sponsor John Hancock is offering "honor bracelets" made from the banners that were hung on the streets of Boston during last year's marathon.

- Each of the 36,000 runners in this year's marathon will get one and a limited number are available to purchase online. All proceeds go to the One Fund Boston.
- As of 4 p.m. Thursday, more than $5,000 had been raised through the effort.

Quoted

"This year, we have the opportunity to reflect and draw inspiration from the strength and courage of all those affected by last year's tragedy." Walsh

About 500 Marathon street banners are hung in Boston each year, typically a month prior to the race until about a week after, organizers said.

Like years past, the banners' theme is "We Run Together." According to organizers, the theme "highlights the importance of many different communities of people who come together to make the race what it is – from the elite athletes to the qualifying runners, to the nonprofit runners who raise millions of dollars, to the volunteers, police and medical personnel who line the course."

High honors

Obama to speak at Worcester Tech high school

President Barack Obama will head to Worcester this June to give the commencement address at an area high school.

Sheila Harrity, principal at Worcester Technical High School, announced the guest speaker on Thursday morning.

It will be Obama's only high school graduation speech of 2014, and will take place on June 11 at the DCU Center. METRO

Death investigation

Todashev shooting report due next week

A Florida prosecutor's report into the FBI-involved shooting death of Ibragim Todashev, the friend of the accused Boston Marathon bombers, is due next week.

Orange-Osceola State Attorney Jeff Ashton said the investigation into Todashev's death last year will be released on Tuesday, according to the Orlando Sentinel.

The Chechan immigrant was fatally shot in his Orlando apartment last May when he allegedly attacked federal authorities who were questioning him. METRO

Massport. Shuttle to run from Logan to Back Bay

The Massachusetts Port Authority said it will start offering daily shuttle service from Logan Airport to the Back Bay, making stops at Copley Station and the Hynes Convention Center.

The shuttles will launch this spring as a two-year pilot program, with service every 20 minutes between the Back Bay locations and the airport, from 5 a.m. to 10 p.m.

Massport said it expects to carry up to 1,400 passengers each day using 40-foot clean fuel buses. The $5 fare will be payable with a credit or debit card, or free for riders with a valid MBTA pass. METRO

Anti-violence

Gun buyback program coming

Following an uptick in shootings to start the year, as well as the apparent accidental fatal shooting of a 9-year-old boy in Mattapan, Boston officials plan to kick off a gun buyback program next week. Details were expected to be announced later. METRO

Hit-and-run. Retired cop enters not guilty plea

A retired veteran Cambridge police officer pleaded not guilty on Thursday to charges that he allegedly fled after critically injuring a pedestrian with his car on Massachusetts Avenue.

Lawrence Stead, 69, of Quincy, allegedly told police he thought he hit something while driving near Symphony Hall at about 6 a.m. Wednesday, got out of his car, didn't see anything and left. Authorities said Stead was driving home from work as an overnight security guard at Wentworth when the crash occurred, according to the Globe. METRO

Gaming commission.
Mayor seeks host status for Boston at meeting

Mayor Marty Walsh, saying that the residents of Boston deserve a democratic process, asked the state gaming commission to declare the Hub a host community to the two proposed casinos in neighboring cities.

Walsh made an appearance at the Massachusetts Gaming Commission's meeting on Thursday and asked the board members to declare Boston a host community.

"Do not cut the people of Boston out" of the process, Walsh said.

As a host community, city residents would be allowed to vote on the proposals, and Boston officials could reap more financial benefits from the casino that's awarded the license.

Attorney Thomas Frongillo, of the firm Fish & Richardson, is helping to represent the city in the process.

"The city's position is that it is a host community," he said, adding that the expanded gaming law doesn't address the issue, therefore commissioners must decide on it.

Wynn Resorts is proposing a casino in Everett, and Mohegan Sun has pitched a casino for Revere. The Mohegan Sun plan came after East Boston residents voted down a casino proposal for Suffolk Downs, which stretches across East Boston and Revere. After that vote, the project was moved entirely onto the Revere side of the tracks.

Gaming commissioners appeared concerned that the request could delay their timetable to award a license, and in turn delay the $85 million license fee revenue to the state.

However, they decided to set an adjudicatory hearing within two weeks to rule on the matter. MICHAEL NAUGHTON

Making his case

Speaking before the gaming commission on Thursday, Walsh made his case that Boston is a host community to both the Wynn and Mohegan Sun proposals.

- Walsh argued that each project cannot be "disentangled" from Boston and that both depend on the city's harbor and roadways for access.
- "The city of Boston is the crucial component to the key selling points of ... the gaming establishments," Walsh said.

Unemployment

State jobless rate falls in February

The state's unemployment rate fell in February to 6.5 percent. Unemployment in February dropped 0.3 percent from January, according to preliminary data released on Thursday by the state Office of Labor and Workforce Development. METRO

Governor's race

Poll: Coakley leads Grossman, Baker

Gubernatorial candidate Martha Coakley maintained her wide lead over her Democratic rivals as well as Republican Charlie Baker in a poll released Thursday.

Coakley topped her nearest Democratic challenger, Steven Grossman, 45-14 in a mock primary, and Baker 41-26 in a head-to-head matchup in the WBUR-MassINC poll of 500 likely voters taken in mid-March. Coakley led Grossman 56-11 in an early February Suffolk poll, and Baker 44-31.

Support for lesser-known candidates Joe Avellone, Juliette Kayyem and Don Berwick is still languishing in the single digits. SHNS

Officials probe Chinatown construction site collapse

Two people injured. Authorities are looking into what caused seven floors to partially collapse.

Workers were evacuated after parts of the 12th floor collapsed to the fifth floor. / NICOLAUS CZARNECKI, METRO

A building that is currently under construction in Boston's Chinatown neighborhood partially collapsed Thursday morning, sending two workers to the hospital.

The Boston Fire Department responded at 8 a.m. to 45 Stuart St., where a structure partially collapsed from the 12th floor to the fifth floor. The structure is being built into a 33-story high-rise apartment building.

Boston EMS treated and transported two construction workers who were injured at the site to Tufts Medical Center. One suffered a serious head injury, while the other sustained a minor injury of an unspecified kind.

The remaining construction workers were evacuated from the scene and moved to LaGrange Street, where they performed a head count to ensure there were no other victims.

There was no word Thursday as to what caused the building to collapse, but Boston Fire Department spokesman Steve MacDonald said the Occupational Safety and Health Administration and state and city building inspectors are investigating.

Dozens avoid injury

About 120 laborers, iron workers and carpenters were working on various floors at the time of the collapse, according to the Boston Fire Department.

After the collapse, workers added supports from the ground to the fifth floor, where there was debris from the collapse.

AvalonBay, a real estate company, is in charge of the construction project.

The company's Senior Vice President of Development Michael Roberts said in a statement, "We are fully cooperating with the Fire Department investigation and are in contact with representatives of OSHA."

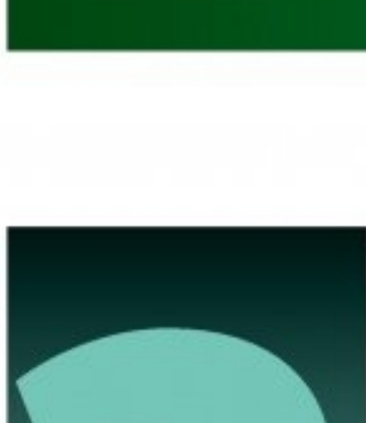
CULTURE



Returning from 2001

'24: Live Another Day'

Fox, returns May 5, 8 p.m. Yes, that "24." Anti-terrorism agent Jack Bauer returns for another horribly stressful 24 hours of his life. No word yet on the return of the cougar.

Reruns be damned!

Spring is here, but there's so much good stuff on TV that you should probably just stay inside. LISA WEIDENFELD

Returning shows you're already watching

'Game of Thrones'

HBO, returns April 6, 9 p.m.: Which beloved character will be brutally murdered by a conniving noble this year? Perhaps just a light maiming? If you've already read the books, keep it to yourself, and enjoy the return of everyone's favorite fantasy version of a Shakespearean tragedy.

'Veep'

HBO, returns April 6, 10 p.m.: Once you've finished watching the political maneuvering and betrayals on "Game of Thrones," stick around for more of the same, but funnier and with more cursing — and Julia Louis-Dreyfus.

'Mad Men'

AMC, returns April 13, 10 p.m.: The final season of "Mad Men" premieres soon, but you're only getting seven episodes before the show disappears again until — brace yourself — spring 2015 for the final 14. Comfort yourself with a martini this afternoon.

Don't remind us that we've been waiting 10 long months for more "True Blood." / HBO

'Nurse Jackie'

Showtime, returns April 13, 9 p.m.: Remember when Merritt Wever won an Emmy for this show and her entire acceptance speech was, "Thank you so much. I gotta go. Bye"? Said so perfectly! Regardless of whatever urgent business she had at the Emmys, she found time to film the sixth season of this dark comedy.

'Orange Is the New Black'

Netflix, returns June 6, midnight: Bit of a cliffhanger at the end of the first season! Presumably, everyone has kissed and made up in time for the second season of Netflix's heart-breaking and hilarious prison drama.

'True Blood'

HBO, returns June 15, 9 p.m.: The vampire/werewolf/fairy Southern Gothic drama returns this June for a final season of love triangles and bad decision-making. There will probably be some new creatures, too!

Returning shows you should be watching

'Call the Midwife'

PBS, returns March 30, 8 p.m.: Few shows spend as much time addressing issues of systemic poverty as this one. Also, almost every episode features a scene of childbirth in all its gross and painful glory. If that doesn't reel you in, the show is sweet, funny, well-acted and full of awesome period-specific costuming from the 1950s.

'Orphan Black'

BBC America, returns April 19, 9 p.m.: Without spoiling too much (there's still time to binge-watch the first season on Amazon Prime), this sci-fi drama has so far featured the same actress (Tatiana Maslany) in seven different roles, and she's spectacular in all of them.

Witches, gangs and geeks face off

There's a whole host of characters you've never seen before in your TV future. LISA WEIDENFELD

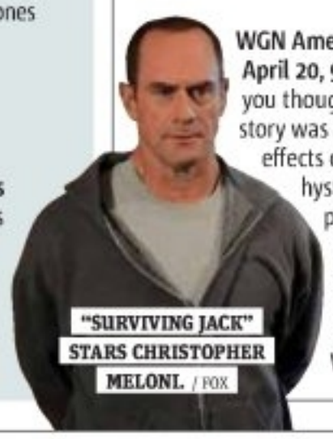
Comedy

'Surviving Jack'

Fox, premieres March 27, 9:30 p.m.: Christopher Meloni will never top Gene, the proud sweater-fondler he played in "Wet Hot American Summer," but he's trying anyway with this sitcom about a stay-at-home dad. It's set in the '90s, because cellphones ruin all dramatic tension.

'Trip Tank'

Comedy Central, premieres April 2, 10:30 p.m.: Various comedians and animation styles combine for a sketch comedy cartoon that's likely to be obscene and offensive and great.



"SURVIVING JACK" STARS CHRISTOPHER MELONI. / FOX

Let's do the twists

'Salem'

WGN America, premieres April 20, 9 p.m.: Sure, you thought the Salem story was about the effects of mass hysteria in a puritanical New England town, but what if there were ACTUAL WITCHES involved? Scary times ahead, and look out for some hot Cotton Mather action as well.

"Gang Related" premieres in May on Fox. / FOX

'Gang Related'

Fox, premieres May 20, 9 p.m.: Ryan Lopez is a new member of his city's gang task force, but he's also ... a member of a gang! Will his loyalties be tested? Will there be good guys in the police ... but also in the gang? Signs point to yes.

Battle of the dramatic computer use shows

Hey, hey, the geeks are all here in "Silicon Valley." / ISABELLA VOSMIKOVA

'Silicon Valley'

HBO, premieres April 6, 10:30 p.m.: Remember when "30 Rock" faced off against "Studio 60 on the Sunset Strip" as shows about late night shows? This spring, the hot topic is the people who make your technology. "Silicon Valley" comes from Mike Judge, of "Office Space" and "Idiocracy" fame. Funny dudes are involved (see above) but the only woman appearing in the trailer is a stripper. Way to combat stereotypes about the tech world, guys.

'Halt and Catch Fire'

AMC, premieres June 1, 10 p.m.: Set in the '80s, "Halt" is about a team of people who try to out-IBM IBM in the PC race. AMC has a pretty solid track record — minus "The Killing" — and we all need more '80s music and clothing in our lives. This could be worth tuning in for '80s hair alone.

'Muppets Most Wanted'

Now that introductions are out of the way, the Muppets can simply goof off. The sequel finds our felt-made heroes snookered by thieves, including a Kermit doppelganger who's really a Russian criminal. Far loopier than the first, it's the "Help!" to the "The Muppets"' "A Hard Day's Night" — inspired nonsense that will go undervalued.

'Nymphomaniac: Volume I'

After all the hoopla, Lars Von Trier's epic "porno" turns out to be the warmest and funniest film he ever made, with Charlotte Gainsbourg's sex addict slowly befriending a reclusive bookworm virgin (Stellan Skarsgard) as she recounts the horror of banging strangers and Shia LaBeouf. It seems downright lovely, especially with Christian Slater as her nice dad — though just wait till "Volume II" (out April 4). MATT PRIGGE

Book to movie. The 'Divergent' movie hews pretty close to the novel

The attraction between Tris and Four builds almost as slowly onscreen as it does in the book. / SUMMIT ENTERTAINMENT

Any time a movie based on a best-selling book comes out, waves of criticism follow about the differences between the two. But now that "Divergent" is (finally) in theaters, readers will be hard pressed to find inconsistencies.

The movie sticks extremely close to the book: The characters look like they should, post-apocalyptic Chicago is as bleak as described, and the sexual tension between Tris (Shailene Woodley) and Four (Theo James) is as thick as author Veronica Roth intended.

When we spoke with Maggie Q, who plays Tori, she told us that while Roth was on set most of the time, she kept her opinions to herself. "She's just so thrilled that all this is happening," she says.

In a past interview, Woodley mentioned that the book is 400 pages and the script is 90 pages, so of course some things are left out. This presents itself primarily in some of the interrelationships between the characters. The romantic relationship between Christina (Zoe Kravitz) and Will (Ben Lloyd-Hughes) is boiled down to a fun flirtation. Al (Christian Madsen) also plays a much smaller part than in the book, not really forming any close friendships.

Still, the elements of the book that matter most are truly brought to life. For fans of the book, seeing the movie will be far from a letdown — it will be a sweet reward. EMILY LAURENCE

1 Cameron Diaz is not the most secure

Cameron Diaz sure is a Debbie Downer. "Everybody has been cheated on, everyone will be cheated on. I can't fix that, I don't know how," Diaz tells the British edition of OK! Magazine. [Editor's note: Please don't confuse The Diaz by telling her it is possible to not cheat on someone if you just decide not to cheat on someone.] Diaz is also fine not having kids, because that means she can travel. [Editor's note: Please don't confuse The Diaz by telling her it is possible to buy your child a plane ticket.]

Is Naya Rivera morphing into a Kardashian?

Rivera's new Instagram photo is causing a stir. / INSTAGRAM

When we talk about "Glee" star Naya Rivera's breasts, in detail, as we're about to do, let's agree on one thing: She's always been a surprisingly busty girl. Those sporty uniforms that she and Dianna Agron rocked for so long on "Glee" did a pretty good job of hiding the headlights, but if you look at red carpet photos, you can tell that Naya's curves were always there.

However, there are curves, and then there are curves. Rumors are spreading that Naya had recently gotten some surgical enhancement after she posted this beach pic on her Instagram, rocking some Kardashian-level proportions (to the delight of her fiance, Big Sean).

So did Naya get a breast enhancement? Not so, insists a source — it's just a case of a flattering camera angle and a very padded bikini top. Which seems, well, not likely, but possible. MELINDA TAUB

Keytar Bear in Government Center

Arguably the most recognizable street performer in Boston, Keytar Bear requires no introduction. Like most bears, he prefers to communicate through his music and Twitter feed, as opposed to human speech. Nonetheless, he graciously granted us an interview at Faneuil Hall.

What's it like to be a viral sensation on the blogs and the Facebooks 'n all?
I don't think I'm that. ... I just feel like a ghost, really. You're dead, but you're there, y'know? A lot of people know you, but you don't know anybody. I feel like I'm looking out a fish bowl all day. You know when you come to somebody's house, and the fish are swimming 'n s—?

When is your birthday?
Keytar Bear was born Oct. 31st, and he'll probably die around April. Before Mother's Day, Keytar Bear will be dead.

Oh no! Why?
Because it's going to be too hot to wear this s—.

When did you start playing keytar?
When my boxing career ended. [I had a record of] 26 and five. I had an accident — crashed a motorcycle, broke a couple of ribs, severed some stuff and couldn't get back into boxing, so I picked up an instrument.

Do you have a message you'd like to send to our readers?
If you see Keytar Bear, make sure you take $3 out of the wallet, then give him the wallet, 'cause he really deserves it. He's about to die, so he needs as many wallets as he can get! ... That's just a joke, though.

BARRY THOMPSON

Because like a phoenix, Keytar Bear dies and is resurrected ...
Yeah, 'cause Boston's a big part of me. ... I want to bring a smile to everybody's face.

MOVIES

'A Spell to Ward Off the Darkness'

Sunday, 7 p.m.
Harvard Film Archive, 24 Quincy St., Cambridge
$7-$9, 617-495-4700
hcl.harvard.edu/hfa
The spiritually searching hero of this 2013 film spends some time on a commune in Estonia, goes Thoreau in the woods of Finland and starts a black metal band in Norway. Why? This isn't one of those movies that tells — it just shows. If that still isn't enough for you, the directors will appear at this screening for a Q and A.

MUSIC

'A Song of Passing Years'

Saturday, First Church in Boston, 170 Beacon St., Boston
$20-$45, 617-427-8200
www.chameleonarts.org
Rock musicians may make their best music when young, but classical composers usually do their best work in their twilight years, as this program, with late works by Brahms, Ravel and Ives, attests. Part two of the program is at The Goethe-Institut on Sunday.

DANCE

'Silent Currents'

Through April 6, Sanctuary Theater, 400 Harvard St., Cambridge
$40, 617-354-7467
www.ballettheatre.org
The latest production from the Jose Mateo Ballet Theatre finds its director reaching into 1992's "Isle of the Dead," accompanying it with two works from 2012: Taken together, the works present a cyclical notion of life, with music from Philip Glass, Rachmaninov and Schnittke. MATTHEW DINARO

Horoscope

♈ Aries | March 21-April 20.
It may take some extra effort on your part to get things moving. Take your time and prepare to change your tactics if you aren't getting the desired results.

♉ Taurus | April 21-May 21.
Financial opportunities are present. Someone may try to include you in a dubious situation. Don't damage your reputation by becoming involved in something that goes against your beliefs.

♊ Gemini | May 22-June 20.
A new solution to an old problem will come your way. Show concern and diplomacy when needed. Your objectivity may be called upon to defuse a professional disagreement.

♋ Cancer | June 21-July 22.
Be more aggressive in your drive to get ahead. Decisive action will give you the payoff you are looking for. If you hesitate, you will miss out on an opportunity.

♌ Leo | July 23-Aug. 22.
A love connection is possible. You need to add some vitality to your life. Find a subject you are enthusiastic about, then get out and mingle.

♍ Virgo | Aug. 23-Sept. 22.
You may be thrown off balance by a troubling situation at home. Stick to your original objectives. It's not the right time to make a commitment to a new venture.

♎ Libra | Sept. 23-Oct. 22.
Those around you are inspired by your knowledge and insight. Your confidence and ability make you a dynamic presence. Utilize all of your talents.

♏ Scorpio | Oct. 23-Nov. 21.
Try not to get stuck on one thing when there is so much to do. Your energy level is high, and you will accomplish more if you show greater diversity.

♐ Sagittarius | Nov. 22-Dec. 21. You may be easygoing, but don't allow anyone to treat you badly. If you don't stand up for yourself now, you will be taken for granted in the future.

♑ Capricorn | Dec. 22-Jan 20.
You will soon see the benefits of your hard work. A project that interests you will be successful if you keep your intentions under your hat for the time being.

♒ Aquarius | Jan. 21-Feb 18.
There is a positive atmosphere surrounding your domestic life. Be sure to spend some time nurturing important relationships. A home-improvement project will bring you closer together.

♓ Pisces | Feb. 19-March 20.
A misunderstanding is likely to arise. Take care of any matter that has the potential to lead to trouble. Do your best to find a solution and make amendments. BERNICE BEDE OSOL

Reagan put his foot down

Re: 'The USSR caused its own destruction' (Metro, March 19) Does letter writer Al Saint Jean really believe the USSR would have imploded if Jimmy Carter had been re-elected? Mr. Saint Jean cites the arms race as a reason for the collapse. Reagan knew the toll the arms race was having on the Soviets and shocked them at Reykjavik when he refused to make concessions like earlier presidents had.
JIM FLETCHER, VIA EMAIL

Take note, Obama: Be like Truman

Following a question on the Keystone pipeline, Secretary John Kerry said that after gathering all the information, he would make a recommendation to the president. But one wonders why, after more than five years of exhaustive study, President Obama cannot make up his own mind by himself. It has become painfully obvious that he wants to delay as long as possible and then distance himself from whatever decision is finally made. Obama also needs to decide if we are to export natural gas to Europe to counter the Russian stranglehold. The decision must be made quickly if we are to influence events in Ukraine. I am convinced that [Russian President] Vladimir Putin would take notice if the pipeline were approved, and Obama would approve the export of natural gas and fast-track development of U.S. export facilities. Instead, Obama has endless useless conversations with Putin and promises incremental sanctions. Harry Truman was admired as a president who could rapidly make a firm decision and stick to it. Obama needs to be more like Truman. GEORGE CHRISTIAN, VIA EMAIL

Seattle may ink Allen

The apple of many a Patriots fan's eye, free agent defensive end Jared Allen, appears to be off the market — maybe. ESPN's Ed Werder reported Allen signed with Seattle early Thursday only to have fellow ESPN reporter Adam Schefter report the two sides are still talking.

Crimson pull upset for second straight season

NCAA. The Bearcats proved to be no match for Harvard in the first round of the tourney.

It took 112 years for Harvard to win their first-ever NCAA tournament game last year against New Mexico. But it took them just one more year to get their second.

No. 12 Harvard upset AAC regular-season champion and No. 5-seed Cincinnati, 61-57, in the second round of the NCAA tournament Thursday.

"I've heard this before where there really aren't upsets anymore," head coach Tommy Amaker said. "There may be some surprises, but I just think when you're looking at seeds and if you're playing this time of year, you're probably a pretty good basketball team."

Harvard led by seven points at the half and looked like the superior team throughout despite a tough game for Siyani Chambers. The star point guard had 11 points on 2-for-10 shooting, including 1-for-6 from 3-point range.

Harvard's defense did a good job of limiting AAC first-team guard Sean Kilpatrick. He led all scorers with 18 points, but was just 6-of-13 from the field and committed five turnovers.

Harvard, who lost to Arizona in the third round in last year's tournament, will take on Michigan State on Saturday. The Spartans are many experts' — and Harvard graduate school alum Barack Obama's — pick to win it all.
